We have designed these lesson plans so that, if you wish, you can have the plan in front of you as you teach, rather than a copy of the book. Each page of the book is illustrated in the plans together with some suggestions for teaching. These have been divided into questions and discussion that you may have before the children read the book and after the children have completed the reading. Some of you may prefer to explore the meaning and the language in more detail before the children read. Your decisions will depend on the gap between the children's current knowledge and the content, vocabulary, and language of the book they are about to read. Remember that the more information the children have up front, the easier it will be for them to read the text. However, this does not mean that you should read the text to them first.

We have addressed four areas that we think are important in developing good readers. As well as comprehension and decoding, we have addressed the issue of children being able to analyse and use the texts they read. The symbols below guide you to the type of question or discussion.

This symbol relates to comprehension (meaning maker)

This symbol relates to decoding (code breaker)

This symbol relates to critical analysis (text critic or analyser)

This symbol relates to use (text user)

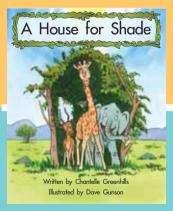

Cover & Title Page

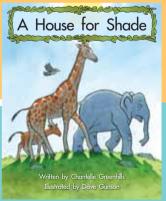

Ask the children to describe the front cover and title page of this book. Have them tell you what kinds of animals these are.

Explain that this book is a narrative and that narratives feature a problem that is resolved by the end of the story

Ask the children to predict what might happen in this story. Why do the animals need shade? What is distinctive about this kind of environment? What country could this be?

Encourage the children to think about their reading. Discuss the strategies they use to decode an unfamiliar word.

The Big Fun Run

Big Wave

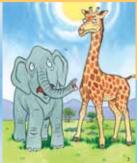

Valley Town

A House for Shade

2/3

Ask the children to look at the picture and describe how these animals are feeling. How do their expressions tell us this? Why are they sweating so much? How does hot weather make people feel?

Ask the children to say what the animals want and to locate where it says this in the text. Ask the children why there is little shade at the moment.

Ask the children to find the word small and point to it. Then ask them to cover the text and spell the word. Have the children find the word hot and tell you its antonym. Discuss other words and their antonyms.

4/5

Ask the children to look at the picture and predict what these characters are saying. Discuss how it feels when we are too hot and list things we can do to keep cool.

Ask the children why the rocks will not give any shade. Encourage the children to refer to the text for the answer.

Can the children describe the problem in this narrative that is now apparent? Discuss the narrative text type and its features.

6/7

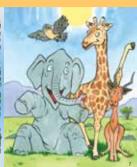

Ask the children to look at the picture. What tells them someone has come up with an excellent idea to solve their problem? What tells us the animals are very hot in the picture?

"Let's make a tall house so I can get in," said Saul Giraffe.

"Yes, a tall house would be good," said Paul Impala.

"No," said Ethel Elephant.
"A tall house would be no go
I need a wide house."

Discuss with the children the different needs each animal has. What kind of house does the elephant need? What about the giraffe? Encourage the children to refer to the text to find the answers.

Ask the children to find the word Would, then cover the text and spell the word. Then ask them to find the ou words would and house. Can they spot the contraction Let's?

8/9

Ask the children to cover the text and tell you what they can see in the picture. What do they think the animals will need to do to make the house? Talk about the jobs they would need to do and which animal is suited to each one.

Can the children think of some text for this picture? Encourage the children to use vocabulary and style similar to that of the author.

"Which hill?" said Paul Impala.

"There are no good hills,"
said Saul Giraffe.
"Some are too big
and some are too small.
Let's make the house on flat ground.
But which of us will make the house?"

Ask the children whether the animals decide to make the house on a hill or on flat ground. Ask the children where it says this and have them refer to the text.

Ask the children to find the word Which and place it in sentences of their own to clarify meaning. Ask the children which open vowel we find in the word Otto.

10/11

Ask the children to predict some text to go with this picture, using a style and vocabulary similar to the author's. Encourage the children to think about what the animals may be saying to each other.

"We can all make the house," said Paul Impala.
"I can dig some holes with my horns."
Paul Impala walked off to start digging.
"I can help," said Ethel Elephant.
"I can pull up big trees.
We can make the posts from trees."
Ethel Elephant walked off to the trees.

Ask the children to tell you what Paul and Ethel are going to do. Encourage them to find the information in the text.

Ask the children to find the word all. Spell it and place it in sentences to clarify use and meaning. Identify the ee vowel digraph in the word trees. What other words have the same sound? List some on the board.

212/13

Have the children cover the text and predict what Otto will do to help.

Can the children think of some text for this picture? Encourage the children to use vocabulary and style similar to that of the author.

"I can help," said Otto Oxpecker.
"I can get grass and twigs to make the roof."
Otto Oxpecker flew off to look for grass and twigs.

"I can pull branches off the trees," said Saul Giraffe.
"We can make the walls from the branches."
Saul Giraffe walked off to find some bushy trees.

Ask the children to find the word help and place it in sentences to clarify meaning and use. Find the word flew and note the vowel digraph ew. Have the children find all the punctuation on this page and explain the function of each.

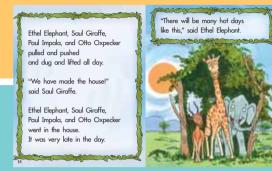

14/15

Ask the children what is happening in this picture. How do they think the animals all feel in their new house?

Ask the children to tell you what they think of this story so far and why. Discuss the resolution of the problem the characters faced early in the story.

Ask the children to identify the word very. Can the children find the antonym words – pushed and pulled? Talk about the meaning of these antonyms and encourage the children to think of others.

Ask the children how they would feel if they had a new house to make them cool. Ask the children if all the work has paid off.

Ask the children what they liked most about this book and whether they might recommend it to their friends.
